HOW TO APPLY?

1. Browse the list of thesis proposals:

<http://www.adum.fr/as/ed/sujetInternatio.pl?ed=&pays=Chine>

If you find a thesis proposal that matches with the research you expect to do for your PhD, apply directly on the website.

If you don't find an interesting thesis proposal on the list, the International PhD Office can help you to find a supervisor in a research center.

Send a CV and a short application letter including a brief description of your research background to: phd-international@univ-toulouse.fr

2. After an interview (e.g. Skype), the French supervisor may provide you an invitation letter to accept your application. This invitation is an internal document (in French) for the doctoral school and Université de Toulouse, not for the CSC.
3. Send your application file to phd-international@univ-toulouse.fr before January 31, 2019 containing all of the following documents in ONLY ONE PDF attached file (Give imperatively the following file name to the document: yourlastname_yourfirstname_yourbirthdate.pdf):

- The thesis proposal description: title, thesis supervisor, short description of the subject, Doctoral school, laboratory.
- PhD goals and motivation: explain why you applied for this thesis proposal, Research Methods you plan to use, Schedule you plan to follow for your PhD
- Invitation letter from the French supervisor for the admission board (in french)
- Curriculum Vitae
- Scan of your ID card
- All diplomas and degrees certificates
- All transcripts (in English) from undergraduate studies to the Master degree
- The English or French language proficiency certificate (mandatory)

(The pdf file should not exceed 2Mo, if it is too big you may scan your documents in a lower resolution)

4. At the end of February 2019, selected candidates will receive the official invitation from the International PhD Office.
5. With the official invitation letter you follow the application process to apply to China Scholarship Council scholarship program. The selected candidates must apply online on CSC's website between March 10 and March 31 (2019).
